Log into Blackboard and click on the course you wish to pair with Connect. Select “Tools” from the menu on the left-hand side.
In your Tools menu, there will be a tool for McGraw-Hill Higher Education (it may be labeled simply as “Higher Education”).
Click on the first option: “Pair Course with a Connect Section.”
The first time you do this, it will ask you to enter your Connect login information. After this, you will have single sign on access to Connect through your Blackboard account.
If you have not created a section in Connect, choose to pair with a “new” section. This will walk you through the course creation process. If you have a course built, you can choose to pair with an existing course.
If you selected to pair with an existing section, select your course and choose the appropriate section and then click “Save.”
Your Connect and Blackboard courses are now paired, so click “return to Blackboard.”
Your courses are now paired, but now you have to bring your existing Connect assignments into Blackboard or create a new Connect assignment. In your Blackboard account, select the folder where you would like your Connect assignments to be located.
While you are in your folder, select the “Assessments” button and choose “McGraw-Hill Assignment.”
If you already have assignments in your Connect section, you will see them listed here. Select the ones you want to be brought into Blackboard and click Submit. If you do not have any assignments or you want to create another Connect assignment, click “Create New Assignment.”
If you create a new assignment, you will notice there is an option to deploy to Blackboard, which should already be turned to “on.” When you click “assign,” you will be taken back into Blackboard.
Once you select existing assignments or complete the assignment creation process, you will be asked to select the assignment location in Blackboard. Confirm all of the settings are what you want and then hit “Submit.”
Your assignments are now hosted in Blackboard. It is important to have students access a Connect assignment through Blackboard at least once so their grades from these assignments will be automatically populated into your Blackboard grade book.
If you have any issues with your Connect assignments or grades in Blackboard, you can go back into the McGraw-Hill Higher Education tool and select “Synchronize with Section.” This will manually refresh and update your assignments and fix any broken links.
