

As an F-1 international student who has failed to maintain his or her immigration status may request reinstatement from the U.S. Citizenship & Immigration Services (USCIS). The USCIS has the discretion to reinstate students to lawful immigration status. Generally speaking, the USCIS will reinstate a student to lawful F-1 student status if:

1. The violation of status was due to circumstances beyond the student's control OR failure to be reinstated would result in extreme hardship to the student AND
2. The student is currently pursuing a full-time course of study AND
3. The student has not engaged in unauthorized employment AND
4. The student has not been out-of-status for more than 5 months.

An F-1 student, who fell out of status due to the following reason, should apply for reinstatement:

1. The student failed to maintain a full-time course of study (12 credits for undergraduate students or 9 credits for graduate students) or did not have Designated School Official (DSO) approval for a reduced course load.
2. The student failed to apply for an extension prior to the expected completion date in section 5 of the form I-20.
3. The student failed to complete a SEVIS transfer in a timely manner.
