Series Description and Container List

Congressional Series, 1900-1919, 6.5 cu. ft.

The largest of the series documents Lever's work on the Agricultural Committee, legislation which he supported, post office business, war claims, requests for positions in government, and correspondence with constituents. Lever corresponded with many influential government officials in state and national government including Woodrow Wilson, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, and Herbert Hoover. He also corresponded with the two senators from South Carolina-- Benjamin Ryan Tillman and Ellison L. Smith--and Governor Richard I. Manning. There is also a large amount of correspondence with constituents at home in Lexington and Richland counties. This series is arranged in an alphabetical subject file.

Series Description and Container List

Gubernatorial Series, 1930, 1.5 cu. ft.

This series contains correspondence with Lever's supporters in various South Carolina counties. Lever had to drop out of the race in the middle of a statewide candidates' speaking tour because of illness. This definitely hurt him and he never caught up. From the correspondence, he had broad support, but he lost the election in the upper counties of South Carolina. This series is arranged alphabetically by South Carolina counties.

Federal Farm Board Series, 1924-1931, 1.5 cu. ft.

In this series, Lever's affiliation with the Federal Farm Board is documented. Although he was with the Federal Farm Board from 1919 to 1932, only the years 1930 through 1931 are covered. Correspondence with members of the Farm Board and educators--such as Edgar Markham and Carl Williams of the Board; D.W. Watkins, W.W. Long, and President E. W. Sikes of Clemson College; and J. Phil Campbell of the University of Georgia--is included in this series. With a few exceptions, this series is arranged alphabetically by subject and chronologically by year.
