Access: There are no restrictions on access to the material.

Processing: Dennis S. Taylor, University archivist, May 1999.

Scope and Content:

This series contains documentation associated with a collection of bird eggs donated by Harry Harlee to Clemson University in 1952. The documentation consists of five rolls of microfilm, correspondence, newspaper clippings, collected biographical information, and photographic slides of the eggs that comprise the collection.

The microfilm contains images of data slips that accompanied the eggs and identify them, correspondence of Mr. Harlee and Myrtle Harlee Miller. The microfilm also contains papers, lectures, articles and a journal written by Franklin Sherman of the Department of Zoology at Clemson College.

The correspondence, which is contained in two folders, is dated 1953 and 1984-1991. Principle correspondents include Professor Stanlee Miller, curator of the collection which is now located in the Department of Biological Sciences; Lou (Mrs. A. M.) Quattlebaum, donor; and E. Milby Burton, director of the Charleston Museum. Mr. Harlee's will, and a codicil to the will, are included in the documentation.
