

Extension Home Economics

Series 144

[099] Series 144

[110] Clemson University. Cooperative Extension Service. Home Economics

[245] Extension Home Economics Records Inclusive dates: 1964-1994

[300] Size: 2.5 cubic feet

[500] General note:

Materials from Acc. No. 96-109 were not retained because they were not related to Clemson University.

Title	Years	Accession	Cubic feet
1. General files and projects	1964-1994	95-64	2.5
2. Reference Files	1969-1989	96-109	1

[506] Restrictions on access

[520] Scope and content:

This series contains the records of Extension Home Economics. The records consist of agendas, correspondence, faxes, grant reports, memoranda, minutes and reports. Subjects represented in the records include food quality and safety, health education, and moisture damage in houses. A prominent correspondent includes Sara Ayers Bagby, Professor of Home Economics.

[561] Provenance

The files were generated by Sara Ayers Bagby, Professor of Home Economics.

[555] Finding Aids Note

[524] Preferred citation

Description and date of item, Extension Home Economics Records, 1964-1994, Series 144, Special Collections, Clemson University Libraries, Clemson, SC.

[600] Subjects

Dampness in buildings
Food—Quality—South Carolina
Food—Safety measures—South Carolina
Health education—South Carolina
Home economics—South Carolina
Home economics extension work—South Carolina
Nutrition extension work—South Carolina

[710] Added entries

Bagby, Sara Ayers.

Prepared by/date:

Laurie Varenhorst, September 2009
Revised by Laurie Varenhorst, March 2010