Introduction

This collection consists of the personal papers of Lemuel A. Garrison, the majority of which document his long career with the National Park Service. In addition, there are some personal papers of his wife, Inger Larsen Garrison.

Karen Garrison Reyer and Lars A. Garrison donated the papers to Clemson University in September 1990. There are no restrictions on the use of this collection beyond those of Special Collections. The collection was processed the register prepared by Laurie Varenhorst in 1995. Student assistants Laurie Poston, Jeff Bogtong and Jimmy Rayford helped with the processing. In 2008 Ms. Varenhorst revised the register. The collection consists of the accessions 90-103 and 91-8.

Biographical Note

Lemuel Alonzo (“Lon”) Garrison was born in Pella, Iowa, on October 1, 1903, the son of Lemuel Addison Garrison, a minister, and his wife, Mary Firth Garrison. His father was president of Central University of Iowa, Pella, Iowa, and Grand Island College, Nebraska, which were both Baptist schools, and later was pastor of the Baptist Church in Ogden, Utah. During his youth, Garrison lived in Nebraska, Idaho and Utah where he graduated from Ogden High School in 1922. Calling himself a “scholastic tramp,” Garrison attended Des Moines University, the University of California at Los Angeles, Redlands University and San Jose State College. He graduated from Stanford University with a Bachelor of Science degree in psychology in 1932.

During the period when he was getting his education, Garrison worked in Alaska from 1929-1931 as a teacher at Haines High School during the winters and as a fire fighter for the U.S. Forest Service in the Chugach National Forest in the summers. It was in Alaska where he met and married Inger Wilhelmine Larsen, a native of Gresvig, Norway, on March 20, 1930. They had three children: Lars Addison, born 1932; Erik Lemuel, born 1939, died 1952; and Mary Karen, born 1940.

After graduating from Stanford University, Garrison entered the National Park Service on July 4, 1932, as a seasonal park ranger at Sequoia National Park, California. He became a permanent ranger in 1935, and was assigned to Yosemite National Park, California. In November 1939 Garrison became the first Superintendent of the Hopewell Village National Historic Site in Birdsboro, Pennsylvania. Two years later, he was assigned as Assistant Chief of Information at the National Park Service’s Washington headquarters. He held this position until June 1942 when he was appointed Assistant Superintendent of Glacier National Park in Montana. After a four-year period at Glacier, Garrison became Assistant Superintendent of the Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona in February 1946. In November 1952 he was transferred to Big Bend National Park in Texas as its second Superintendent. Garrison returned to Washington, D.C., in January 1955, to serve as the Park Service's first Chief of Conservation and Protection. During this time he concurrently served as the Chairman of the National Park Service MISSION 66 Steering Committee. He was appointed as Superintendent of Yellowstone National Park in November 1956. From there Garrison went on to be the Park Service's Regional Director in the Midwest Region, Omaha, Nebraska (1964-1966), and the Northeast Region in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (1966-1970). He served as the Director of the Horace M. Albright Training Center at Grand Canyon, Arizona, from 1970 until his retirement from the National Park Service on January 19, 1973.

Besides his work for the National Park Service, Garrison was a guest lecturer in many university Park and Recreation Departments and training programs. Some of the universities he visited include Colorado State University, University of Montana, Utah State University, Iowa State University, New York State University, Ohio State University and University of Minnesota. He was a visiting professor at Oregon State University in 1972 and 1973. From 1973-1984 he was a guest lecturer and visiting professor in the Recreation and Parks Department at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas.

Garrison was also a successful free lance writer who had written more than two hundred fifty articles on the outdoors, parks, fishing, youth activities, travel, children, tall stories, and humor. His articles appeared in publications such as Outdoor Life, Journal of Forestry, and Parks and Recreation Magazine. One of his writings was a booklet, The Mather-Albright Years, which was published by the Big Bend Natural History Association, Inc. During his spare time while working as a visiting professor at Texas A&M University, Garrison wrote a book, The Making of a Ranger: Forty Years with the National Parks, which he characterized as an "adventure autobiography" concerning his experiences as a National Park Service employee. The book was published in 1983.

Garrison received a number of awards for his dedication and service to the parks. Some of these awards include: Department of the Interior, Meritorious Service, 1956; Department of the Interior, Distinguished Service Award, 1961; American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society's Pugsley Gold Medal Award, 1970; the National Conference on State Parks Award of Excellence, 1972; and the National Society for Park Resources Distinguished Service Award, 1976.

Inger Larsen Garrison was teaching in a small, isolated school for children in the United States Territory of Alaska when she met Lon Garrison. Her father, a sailor and steel-worker, had brought his family to Alaska some years before. She had attended Eastern Washington State University before teaching. During their early years of moving around for the National Park Service, Mrs. Garrison developed an interest in studying the cultures of the people, generally the Native Americans, who lived near the parks where her husband worked. In time she developed so much knowledge about Indian art that she became a cultural consultant organizing and arranging numerous shows and exhibits for groups such as the Arizona Commission on the Arts and Humanities. Mrs. Garrison also served as consultant on cultural affairs for the National Park Service's "Living History," or cultural interpretation, program. She wrote a chapter on "Living Interpretation," in Interpreting the Environment, a college textbook which was assembled by Dr.

Grant Sharpe of the University of Washington in 1976. Inger Garrison served as one of 40 people from across the United States chosen to form the Park, Arts and Leisure Panel, cosponsored by the National Park Service and the National Recreation and Parks Association, which led a pilot project concerning the arts and parks on all governmental levels. She was a charter member of the World Craft Council and involved in the National Park Service Women's Organization. She was an adjunct professor of Arts at Northern Arizona University and lectured on Indian Art and Pottery and firing for the Department of Archaeology at Texas A&M University. In addition, she was an accomplished potter and sculptor.

With resourcefulness, a deep intellectual perception, dedicated leadership and a deep love and respect for nature, Lemuel Garrison helped forge a philosophy of outdoor recreation management that became a model for the nation. Inger Garrison made her own contributions to the parks through her passionate interest and active involvement in the culture and the arts. Lon Garrison passed away on February 14, 1984 in College Station, Texas, and about a year later, Inger Larsen Garrison died on January 21, 1985. They are buried at Grand Canyon National Park. The biographical information on the Garrisons came from material found within the collection.

Scope and Content

The Lemuel A. Garrison Papers covers the period from 1914-2008, and are organized into four series: General File, Inger Garrison, Maps/Pamphlets, and Slides and Photographs. Folders in the first two series are arranged alphabetically by folder title and then chronologically within each folder. The Maps/Pamphlets series is arranged alphabetically by the name of the place and each map has been given a number. The Slides and Photographs are each arranged differently: photographs are arranged alphabetically by the folder title from which they were removed; the slides are essentially in alphabetical order by the name of the place and then numbered consecutively. Square brackets are placed around information provided by the processors; it was not originally part of the material or the folder title. Words in some of the folder titles are underlined to show the proper filing sequence. The dates on the folders show the span dates for the material filed within each folder.

The collection reflects Garrison's long and dedicated involvement with America's parks. Generally, the material was used as reference tools in his various positions as a National Park Service employee, free lance writer, guest lecturer and visiting professor. There are many slides of places he visited or was stationed at during his employment with the National Park Service. In addition, there are some personal papers of his wife, Inger Larsen Garrison, concerning her active involvement with art, culture and Native Americans. The bulk of the collection dates from 1960-1979.

The General File series consists primarily of the material that Garrison used as reference tools in his work. Some of the items concern the parks to which Garrison was transferred/promoted but the majority of the files consist of publications on other parks. Other material includes that concerning National Park Service history and some of its policies and programs. In addition, correspondence, speeches, articles and information on Garrison's The Making of a Ranger can be found in this series. The Inger Garrison series consists of some of Mrs. Garrison's personal papers concerning her interests and work involving the arts, culture and Native Americans. Furthermore, there is some material on the National Park Service Women's Organization, a chapter that Mrs. Garrison wrote for Interpreting the Environment, and some information on her consultant work with the National Park Service.

The Maps/Pamphlets series contains a number of oversize maps and pamphlets that were removed from the General File series. This series was created because of the large number of oversize items. The majority of these maps and pamphlets covers parks, recreation areas, historic sites, and monuments. A number of the pamphlets have maps on them. The Slides and Photographs series contains a number of slides from his personal travels and his work with the National Park Service. The majority of these slides are of parks, recreation areas, historic sites and monuments.

The Garrison Papers will be of especial interest to researchers interested in the National Park Service. This collection contains a great deal of information about a variety of parks, historic sites and monuments ranging over different time periods. Moreover, researchers can see how the National Park Service developed some of its policies and programs such as Mission 66. The Lemuel A. Garrison Papers shows involvement of two remarkable individuals in America's National Park Service over a fifty-year period.

General File Series, 1828, 1914-2008, 20 cu. ft., folders 1-483

This series is arranged alphabetically by folder title and then chronologically within each folder. Most of the material in the General File series consists of a variety of publications on the nation's parks, historic sites and monuments. There are also newspaper and magazine articles, newsletters, bulletins, reports, maps, correspondence, memos, notes, and speeches.

Garrison used these materials for reference in his jobs as a National Park Service employee, free lance writer, guest lecturer and visiting professor. There is material on the national parks, including Big Bend Glacier, Grand Canyon, Sequoia, Yellowstone and Yosemite, where Garrison worked during his career as well as material on other parks and public lands. Also included is information on his position at the Hopewell Village National Historic Site and his two District of Columbia posts, plus files on the National Park Service's field training facility, the Horace M. Albright Training Center or Academy. In addition, the series has correspondence and other material relating to Horace M. Albright, who helped Stephen T. Mather start up the National Park Service in 1916.

There are reports and memos concerning MISSION 66, a National Park Service program to improve the preservation and protection of the nation's parks and public lands and to execute it by the Park Service's 50th Anniversary in 1966. Park Service policy information can be found on concessions, carrying capacity of the parks and public lands, ethics in park management, forest fires, equal employment opportunity, personnel, and the controversy over the title and duties of the rangers. Other material on the National Park Service includes its 50th Anniversary and history, conferences, memos and newsletters. Some quotes, clippings and other material on Interior Secretaries Walter J. Hickel and Stewart L. Udall and National Park Service Director George B. Hartzog, Jr. are located in this series. The correspondence folders in this series contain letters and memos. The majority of Garrison's personnel records are filed in this series as well as some biographical material.

A number of speeches done by Garrison on a variety of subjects can be found in this series. In addition, there are copies of some speeches by Presidents John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, National Park Service Director George B. Hartzog, Jr., and some other individuals. There are speech preparation notes and reference material on such subjects as beauty, humor, poetry and religion. Material on other general subjects includes bears, camping, cities, conservation, environment, historic preservation, Native Americans, land planning, management, planning, pollution, public relations, safety, water and watershed management, wilderness and wildlife. Some of the many groups/programs in which Garrison was greatly involved listed in this series include the Aspen Institute Executive Program, the National Conference on State Parks, the National Recreation and Park Association, the National Wildlife Federation, Sierra Club, and the Society of American Foresters. Information on some of the universities where Garrison lectured includes Arizona State College, Colorado State, Ohio State, Oregon State, Stanford and Texas A&M. Finally, this series contains correspondence, notes, miscellaneous sections and drafts concerning Garrison's book, The Making of a Ranger: Forty Years with the National Parks.

 INGER GARRISON SERIES DESCRIPTION AND CONTAINER LIST

Inger Garrison Series, 1956-1991, 2 cu. ft., folders 484-538

This series contains some of the personal papers of Inger Larsen Garrison. It is arranged alphabetically by folder title and then chronologically within each folder. Most of the material concerns her involvement as an art/cultural consultant. There are letters, memos, reports and other material concerning the Living History and Living Interpretations programs. There is some correspondence, notes and an original draft concerning a chapter, "Living Interpretation," which Inger Garrison wrote for Interpreting the Environment, a college textbook which was assembled by Dr. Grant Sharpe of the University of Washington in 1976. Furthermore, there is some material on the National Park Service Women's Organization and the World Craft Council in which Mrs. Garrison was involved. This series also has material concerning the Park, Arts and Leisure Panel on which Inger Garrison served as one of 40 members from across the United States chosen to lead a pilot project concerning the arts and parks on all governmental levels. A little information on the marketing of Native American art and a few brochures can be found in this series as well as a few articles on Inger Garrison and some memorials to both Garrisons are located in this series.

Maps/Pamphlets Series, 1932-1979, 160 Items

This series is arranged alphabetically by the name of the place and each map has been given a number. The series contains a number of oversize maps and pamphlets removed from the General File series because of the large number of oversize items. The majority of these maps and pamphlets cover parks, recreation areas, historic sites, and monuments. A number of the pamphlets have maps printed on them.

SLIDES AND PHOTOGRAPHS SERIES DESCRIPTION AND CONTAINER LIST

Slides and Photographs Series, 1940-1982, 137 Photographs and 1,479 Slides

The Slides and Photographs are each arranged differently: photographs are arranged alphabetically by the folder title from which they were removed; the slides are essentially in alphabetical order by the name of the place and then numbered consecutively. Some of the slides have letters assigned with their numbers because they were added at the last minute. This series contains a great number of slides from Garrison's personal travels and his work with the National Park Service. The majority of these slides are of parks, recreation areas, historic sites and monuments. A number of these places pictured have related material in the General File series.

Photographs:

Folder One

One colored 8" x 10" glossy photograph of an Alaskan scene, no date.

Six 8" x 10" black-and-white glossy photographs of Horace Albright used by the Horace M. Albright Testimonial Committee, New York, New York, June 29, 1959.

Four 8" x 10" black-and-white glossy photographs of various groups at the Horace M. Albright Training Center, Grand Canyon, Arizona, September-October 1970.

One 8" x 10" black-and-white glossy photograph of the Resource Maintenance Workshop Group at the Horace M. Albright Training Center, Grand Canyon, Arizona, March 1-5, 1971.

One 8" x 10" black-and-white matte photograph showing the individuals who attended the Aspen Executive Program at the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, February 14-27, 1965.

Three 4" x 5" black-and-white glossy photographs and one 3.5" x 5" colored glossy photograph showing human trash left at Granite Park and Trout Lake at the Glacier National Park, August 1967.

One 8" x 10" black-and-white glossy photograph of Lon Garrison, Quinn and Rutherford, 1954.

One 8" x 10" black-and-white glossy photograph of the Big Bend Bar-B-Q, November 13, 1954.

Three 8" x 10" black-and-white glossy photographs showing Garrison at the dedication of the Eleutherian Mills as an historic preservation landmark on May 8, 1967.
