Abstract:	Gary Everhardt was an engineer with the National Park Service who became Assistant Superintendent of Yellowstone National Park in 1969 and Superintendent of Grand Teton National Park in 1972. In 1975 he became the ninth Director of the National Park Service where he oversaw the park-wide celebration of the national Bicentennial and doubled the acreage of lands belonging to the Service, promoting land conservation and preservation. In 1977 he resigned from the directorship and became Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway. During his tenure as Superintendent he oversaw the completion of the parkway with the construction of the Linn Cove Viaduct around Grandfather Mountain in North Carolina. Everhardt supervised and supported the construction of the Asheville Folk Art Center, Parkway Headquarters and the Blue Ridge Music Center. The fiftieth anniversary of the Parkway and its formal dedication were celebrated while he was Superintendent. He retired in 2000. The collection contains correspondence, memoranda, notes, photographs, reports, speeches, and other materials relating to Everhardt's career in the National Park Service, particularly his service as the Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Biographical Note

Gary Eugene Everhardt was born on July 8, 1934 in Lenoir, North Carolina. He attended North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering (now North Carolina State University) and graduated in 1957 with a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering. He married Nancy Poovey and they had two children: Karen, in 1959, and Phil, in 1963.

Everhardt started working with the National Park Service (NPS) as a student engineer surveying lands in the Blue Ridge area near Grandfather Mountain. After graduation the NPS offered Everhardt a job as a civil engineer. After serving 6 months in the Army in 1958, Everhardt continued with his civil engineering job until he was promoted to general engineer in the Southeast Regional Office, Richmond, Virginia in 1962. He was then promoted to Regional Coordinator of Engineering in 1964 and transferred to the Southwest Regional Office in Santa Fe, New Mexico in 1966 with a similar position as the Regional Chief of Maintenance.

In 1969, Everhardt moved to Yellowstone National Park to serve as the Assistant Superintendent. He stayed there until 1972, when he was promoted to be the Superintendent of Grand Teton National Park. It was at Grand Teton where he was awarded the Department of the Interior's Meritorious Service Award for planning and executing a global conference for national parks.

Everhardt was nominated out of the NPS ranks and became the ninth Director of the National Park Service in January 1975 under President Gerald Ford. As Director, Everhardt oversaw the park-wide celebration of the national Bicentennial and doubled the acreage of lands belonging to the NPS. Throughout his directorship, he promoted land preservation and conservation. In May of 1977, he stepped down from the Directorship and served briefly as the Special Assistant to the National Park Service Director until he started work as the Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway in October 1977.

As the fifth Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway, Everhardt revived construction and oversaw the completion of the parkway with the construction of the Linn Cove Viaduct around Grandfather Mountain in North Carolina. He sought to improve interpretative programming, develop trails and attract visitors to the Parkway. Everhardt supervised and supported the construction of the Asheville Folk Art Center, Parkway Headquarters and the Blue Ridge Music Center.

For his service as the Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway, Gary E. Everhardt was awarded the Department of the Interior's highest honor on April 24, 1985: the Distinguished Service Award. In 1990, he was awarded the Cornelius Amory Pugsley National Medal Award for his dedication to park conservation. The Blue Ridge Parkway Headquarters in North Carolina is named after him. Everhardt retired in 2000 to Arden, North Carolina.

Scope and Contents Note

Material in the Papers was created as a result of Everhardt's career in the National Park Service as Assistant Superintendent of Yellowstone National Park, Superintendent of Grand Teton National Park, National Park Service Director, and particularly as the Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway. The files reflect the day-to-day management concerns relating to running the National Park Service or individual parks. Topics reflected in these files include budgeting; concessionaires and their relationship with the parks; Congress and its relationship to the parks; construction and maintenance projects; environmental conditions in the parks; housing; land acquisition, access, and use, including vista protection; management of both land and park staff; planning; and public use and interpretation, including economic and other impacts on the parks and surrounding areas. The collection also contains a small amount of personal correspondence with current and former co-workers and friends. Items in the collection date from 1936 to 2005 with most of the material dating from 1972-1999. The collection is arranged into five series: Pre-Director, Director of the National Park Service, Blue Ridge Parkway, Photographs, and Artifacts.

Pre-Director Series, 1948-1979 (bulk 1962-1974)

box 1-5

Physical Description: 2.25 Cubic Feet (4.5 document boxes, two photographs, 20 oversize items)

Scope and Contents

The material in the series was created as part of Everhardt's duties as an engineer with the Southeastern Regional Office (SERO), as Regional Chief of Maintenance for the Southwestern Regional Office (SWRO), as Assistant Superintendent of Yellowstone National Park, and as Superintendent of Grand Teton National Park. The SERO and SWRO files deal mainly with construction and maintenance projects at various parks under each Office's jurisdiction. Similar concerns files are a part of Yellowstone National Park material as well as files relating to budgets, environmental issues, land acquisition, and conditions in the park. The Grand Teton material includes files relating to environmental matters in the park, land acquisition and management, planning and evaluation, and public use of the park. It also contains a small amount of personal correspondence including correspondence with former National Park Service Directors Horace Marsden Albright and George Hartzog, some of which refers to National Park Service-related matters. Overall the files in the series date from 1948 to 1979, with most of items dating from 1962 to 1974. Material in this series is arranged alphabetically by folder title.

NPS Director Series, 1972-1977 (bulk, 1974-1977)

box 1

box 2-5

Physical Description: 2.5 Cubic Feet (5 document boxes, 1 volume, 2 photographs, 1 oversize item)

Scope and Contents

The material in the series was created during Everhardt's tenure as National Park Service Director and his short stint as Special Assistant to the Director after his resignation. The majority of the series is made up of letters of congratulation on his appointment as Director, correspondence concerning his resignation, and his chronological files. The chronological files contain correspondence and memoranda relating to appointments, employees, management and planning, and issues at various parks. The series also contains material relating to the National Park Service budget and Everhardt's testimony before Congress. A small amount of personal correspondence is also included in this series as well as a folder of correspondence to and from former National Park Service Director Ron Walker. The items in the series date from 1972 to 1977, with most of the files dating from 1974-1977. Material in this series is arranged alphabetically by folder title.

The series contains very little regarding planning for the U.S. Bicentennial although there is a little material about various events held in conjunction with it.

Blue Ridge Parkway Series, 1936-2005 (bulk, 1978-1999)

Physical Description: 11.5 Cubic Feet (22 document boxes, 45 photographs, 152 oversize items, one audio disc, one artifact)

Scope and Contents

The files in this series were created as a result of Everhardt's activities as Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway from 1977-2000. In addition to material relating to the overall management of the Parkway there are files on the design and construction of the Blue Ridge Music Center in Galax, Virginia and the Parkway Headquarters and Linn Cove Viaduct in North Carolina; the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Parkway in 1985; the dedication of the Parkway in 1987; and correspondence with the Friends of the Blue Ridge Parkway, in particular Executive Director Vera Guise and members Gene Messick and Garrett A. Smathers. A small amount of personal correspondence is also part of this series and includes letters to and from former National Park Service Directors Horace Marsden Albright and George B. Hartzog and conservationists Hugh Morton (owner of Grandfather Mountain, NC) and Nathaniel Pryor Reed which touch on National Park Service-related matters and conservation issues in general. Items in the series date from 1936 to 2005 with most of the material dating between 1978 and 1999. Material in this series is arranged alphabetically by folder title.

Photographs Series, 1957-2001 (bulk, 1975-2000)

box 1-3

Physical Description: 1.3 Cubic Feet (3 document boxes, 10 oversize photographs)

Scope and Contents

The photographs were generally created due to Everhardt's National Park Service activities although there are a few personal photographs included in the series. While there are photographs documenting his service at Yellowstone National Park, Grand Teton National Park, and as Park Service Director, the bulk of the photographs were taken while he was Superintendent of the Blue Ridge Parkway. In addition to documenting events such as the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Parkway in 1985 and the dedication of the Parkway in 1987, there are also photographs showing the Parkway itself, particularly the Linn Cove Viaduct. This series contains photographs dating from 1957 to 2001, with most of the photographs created in the period 1975-2000. They are arranged chronologically, with photographs transferred from the Pre-Director, Director, and Blue Ridge Parkway series and a sound recording from the Blue Ridge Parkway series filed at the end.

Among the individuals appearing in photographs in this series are Paul H. Broyhill, owner of Broyhill Furniture; Queen Elizabeth II; U.S. Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole; North Carolina Governors James Hunt and James Martin and Virginia Governor Charles Robb; National Park Service Director William Penn Mott; President Ronald Reagan; and conservationists Nathaniel Reed and Laurance Rockefeller.
