INTRODUCTION

The Carroll Campbell papers document the period 1978-1986 when Campbell served in the U.S. House of Representatives for the Fourth Congressional District (Greenville, Spartanburg, and Union Counties). The bulk of the collection consists of the correspondence files. Researchers desiring access to the correspondence files must receive written permission of the donor until January 1, 1997. Researchers must, in any case, agree to respect the confidentiality of correspondents and others mentioned in the correspondence files until either their death or thirty years from the date of correspondence. The following processed series are open to researchers: Media Relations, Speeches, Clippings and Photographs.

Carroll Campbell donated these papers in 1986. This register was prepared by Paul Peterson and Michael Kohl in 1987-1988.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Carroll Ashmore Campbell, Jr. was born in Greenville on July 24, 1940 to Carroll Ashmore and Anne Williams Campbell. Campbell grew up in Greenville, Simpsonville, and Liberty. As the eldest son in a family of six children, Campbell became accustomed to assuming responsibility and earning his own way. After graduation from high school, he married Iris Rhodes in 1959. In the 1960's, Campbell created a successful real estate business including the Handy Park Parking Company. He also invested in a chain of Burger King restaurants.

In the mid-1960's, Campbell also bought his first farm. He began raising cattle and breeding and showing Arabian horses. In 1972, one of his horses was judged among the Top Ten Western Horses in the nation.

Campbell's political career began in 1970 with his election to the South Carolina House of Representatives where he served for four years. During his second term, he was elected Assistant Minority Leader and also First Vice Chairman of the Medical, Military, Public and Municipal Affairs Committee. Campbell was the first Republican in over a century to hold an office on a standing committee at a time when the legislature contained 103 Democrats and 21 Republicans. Campbell supported the successful drive to give South Carolina's 18-year-olds legal rights, including the right to vote.

Campbell made his first state-wide race in 1974, running for the office of lieutenant governor. He lost by 33,000 votes. Subsequently, Campbell was named Executive Assistant for Governor James B. Edwards with responsibility for surrogate speaking, overseeing all public affairs, health and social agencies and representing the Governor on the Board of Trustees of the Medical University of South Carolina. He organized the State Health Coordinating Council and Health Systems Agencies, and chaired the Health and Social Development Council. Campbell also conducted an investigation of the Department of Social Services.

From 1976-1978, Campbell served in the South Carolina Senate, where he served on several committees including the Judiciary Committee. He was only the fifth non-lawyer in the history of the state to do so. During this period, Campbell and his wife began to focus on an area of continuing interest and concern to them both--working with the handicapped and the developmentally disabled. Campbell served on the Governor's Committee on the Employment of the Handicapped and State Epilepsy Board, and Iris was a member of the Governor's Committee for the Advocacy of the Handicapped Citizen. Campbell has received a number of citations for his work with rehabilitation and the handicapped, including the Legislative Service Award from the National Rehabilitation Association in 1985.

In 1978, Carroll Campbell became the first Republican since Reconstruction to represent South Carolina's Fourth Congressional District in the U.S. House of Representatives after defeating Max Heller in a closely contested race. Once in Washington, Campbell took the opportunity to continue his formal education at American University where he earned a Master's Degree in Political Science and was elected to Pi Sigma Alpha national honor society.

During his four terms as Congressman, Campbell worked on child support legislation, one-stop delivery of social services, and the Voting Rights Act. He has also concentrated on legislation of concern to South Carolina's textile industry and was a member of the Congressional Textile Caucus Steering Committee. He was the author of the textile freeze legislation in the 98th Congress, which was the forerunner of the Textile and Apparel Trade Enforcement Act of 1985. Campbell is an original cosponsor of that legislation. He served on the House Banking and Housing Committee, the Appropriations Committee and on the Ways and Means Committee.

Campbell has also earned national attention as an early supporter of and spokesman for President Ronald Reagan, whose South Carolina campaigns he chaired in both 1980 and 1984. He was also co-chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives Core Group for Reagan in 1980 and chairman in 1984. Campbell has been active in national Republican politics since he attended his first political convention as an alternate delegate in 1972. He has attended each Republican National Convention since then as a South Carolina delegate. In 1976, he served on the Platform Committee and drafted the textile plank. He chaired the South Carolina delegation in 1980. In 1988, he chaired the South Carolina George Bush for President Committee.

In 1986, Campbell defeated Mike Daniel to become only the second Republican to be elected governor since Reconstruction. During his first administration, he met the challenge of the state's worst disaster, Hurricane Hugo. He was re-elected Governor of South Carolina in 1990.

The Campbells have two sons, Carroll A. III, born in 1964, and Richard Michael II, born in 1968.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Campbell papers consist of the following series: Administration, Committee, Correspondence, Legislation, Media Relations, Newspaper Clippings, Photographs, Speeches, Videotapes, and Ways and Means Committee. Approximately seventy percent of the collection consists of correspondence. This series is arranged by file number assigned to particular letters or groups of letters. There is a computer-generated name and subject index to this series. Files of the Administration and Ways and Means Committees concern particular legislation before these committees. The Legislation series includes copies of bills submitted in sessions, correspondence, and research notes related to them. Currently, these series are unprocessed and unavailable to researchers.

The Media Relations series documents Campbell's preparation for television and radio interviews as well as press releases, media advisories and newsletters. The series is organized alphabetically by folder title and chronologically thereafter. The newspaper clippings series has material related to Campbell from South Carolina and some out of state newspapers. It is organized by year and publication and chronologically thereafter. The photographs cover Campbell's campaigns, a variety of meetings with other political leaders, and visits with constituents.

The Speeches series consist of copies of Campbell's speeches, 1979-1986. Subjects covered include Republican political strategy, the Reagan economic program, and the South Carolina textile industry. The videotapes consist primarily of campaign spots.

MEDIA RELATIONS SERIES 1979-1986

.65 cu. ft. folders 1-39

The media relations series documents Congressman Campbell's television and radio interviews as well as press releases, media advisories, and newsletters which were distributed to the press and constituents.

The "Media Advisory", 1982-1985, is a weekly itinerary for Campbell's upcoming media events. Each advisory gives time, date, and location of the particular event that Campbell plans to attend.

The "Newsletters", 1979-1986, are reports to Fourth District constituents on congressional issues and subjects of interest to them. Topics such as Social Security, textiles, trade, and defense are included.

The "Press Release", 1979-1986, are a nearly complete listing of news releases to the media. These releases deal primarily with congressional issues and legislation specifically involving Campbell. Each press release gives time, date, and location of release to the media.

The "Radio Advisory", 1982-1985, consists of notes, questions, and summations of Campbell's radio interviews.

The "Weekly Reports", 1979-1985, are weekly releases to the media concerning current issues associated with Campbell. Each report documents time and date of release to the media.

The "Weekly TV/Radio Schedules", 1982-1986, appear to have been designed primarily for Campbell to review upcoming television and radio interviews. The time, date, location, and interviewer are given for each scheduled interview. Also proposed topics and questions that will be addressed are included.

The Media Relations series is arranged in alphabetical order by folder title and chronologically thereafter. Information concerning the date, title, or subject is included when available. The "Press Releases" have a separate index for each year, with all indices filed at the beginning of the subject folder. The "Weekly Reports" are only partially indexed, with the indices appearing with the subject folder. For each individual subject folder, undated material is located at the end of the last month given for the corresponding year.

The largest portion of the series contains Congressman Campbell's "Press Releases" and his "Weekly Reports" to constituents. There is also a folder documenting federal grants to the Fourth District and Campbell's constituent services, 1983 and a candidate prospectus for South Carolina Congressman John L. Napier, 1980.

SPEECHES 1979-1986

1 cu. ft. folders 1-210

The speeches are arranged chronologically, 1979-1986. Information concerning the date, title or subject, and location of where the speech was given is included when available. It is difficult to identify the location of most of the speeches. Speeches that are not titled appear at the end of the corresponding month/year. Speeches that are not dated are filed at the end of the corresponding month/year. Speeches that are dated by season are located at the last month for that time of year.

Many speeches were given to Greenville-Spartanburg area civic organizations, business associations, and colleges. The subjects of the speeches include Republican political strategy, the Reagan economic program, and the South Carolina textile industry.

9 cu. ft. folders 1-990

The clippings series has newspaper clippings related to Campbell. The majority of papers are from South Carolina with some national papers. The series is organized by year, then alphabetically by name of the publication the clipping is from, then chronologically by date within the folders. Many of the items are photocopies which either Campbell's staff or workers in Special Collections made.
