Historical note

The Chief of Staff (see Administrative Assistant series) handled all matters connected with the operation of Senator Strom Thurmond's office in Washington, DC. This individual, Robert J. 'Duke' Short, was responsible for implementation of and changes in office policy, and supervised the office staff. He had overall responsibility for all correspondence except for the Senator's personal correspondence. The Chief of Staff established and maintained records on personnel, employment recommendations, promotions, demotions and discharges. In addition, he handled all patronage matters that dealt with office positions and other government positions, and was in charge of the interns and pages. The Chief of Staff kept the Senator informed of all office operations, carried out special assignments, and tasked the Press Assistant with covering newspapers and publications for articles of importance or interest to the Senator. Furthermore, he edited or proofed all drafts of statements and speeches before they went before the Senator. Finally, the Chief of Staff helped during political campaigns, and was the only staff member allowed by law to do so as part of his normal duties.

Due to Senator Thurmond's extreme age, his Chief of Staff, of necessity, took on additional responsibilities to assist the Senator and carry out all his Senate duties. Some of these additional duties included attending all Senate meetings, listening and advising, and in some instances, speaking for the Senator. Mr. Short also hired additional staff, special assistants to Senator Thurmond, to assist him in any way necessary to carry out his official duties as well as push his wheel chair. As the Senator and Mr. Short carried out their duties the Senate has recognized Mr. Short's contributions, not only to Senator Thurmond but to the Senate as well, and honored him with the unprecedented designation of Assistant South Carolina Senator.

The Special Assistants to Senator Thurmond, mentioned above, included Jason Rossbach and Mark Ivany. Mr. Short's Personal Secretary was Eliza Edgar, whose father is famous South Carolina Historian, Author and Radio personality Dr. Walter Edgar.

Mr. Short also held the unique distinction of being Senator Thurmond's Chief of Staff for over 30 years, which is longer than most senators have served in Congress, including the junior Senator from South Carolina, Fritz Hollings.

Scope and Content note

The Chief of Staff series contains records ranging from ordinary day-to-day office files and correspondence to unique and sensitive committee and agency files. The dates of inclusion are 1959, when Duke Short first became employed by Senator Strom Thurmond, to the end of 2002, when all record-keeping activities caesed due to Senator Thurmond's, and therefore Duke Short's, retirement.
