Dr. Ernest L. Corley, Jr. was a 1949 Clemson Dairy Science graduate who became one of the top officials in the United States Department of Agriculture. Throughout his career, he credited Clemson with opening the door to his success.

Ernest L. Corley, Jr.
1924 - 2005
Dr. Ernest L. Corley Jr. was a 1949 Clemson dairy science graduate who became one of the top officials in the United States Department of Agriculture. He earned his M.S. and Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin where he served on the faculty. In 1963 he joined the USDA as leader of the national dairy record-keeping program for the Agriculture Research Service (ARS) at Beltsville, Md. He retired in 1992 as director of agriculture research for ARS in the South Atlantic Area.

Dr. Corley consistently credited Clemson with opening the door to his professional success.

Created endowments to fund the Ernest L. Corley Jr. Trustees Chair in Animal and Veterinary Sciences and the Ernest L. Corley Jr. Endowed Graduate Assistantship