Welcome Theresa McWilliams and Keith Hudgins!

About Theresa

The Clemson family is thrilled to welcome our newest tiger, Theresa McWilliams! Theresa will be working as a business operations assistant for the university. Before coming to Clemson, Theresa worked for Indiana University School of Medicine in Indianapolis as a business administrator. Theresa brings her husband and two dogs with her in her move from Indiana to Clemson. When switching jobs, Theresa looked at other universities in the southeast but fell in love with Clemson's campus during a visit. Theresa has a degree in accounting and is originally from Highland, Indiana. When asked what excites her about working at Clemson, Theresa replied, "Everything here—the atmosphere is wonderful and the campus is beautiful!" Welcome, Theresa!

About Keith

Welcome to our second tiger, Keith Hudgins! Keith is a lecturer in the management department in the college of business. A lifelong tiger and Clemson graduate, Keith is passionate about helping students and giving back to the university. Prior to becoming a professor, Keith was a mentor for the Spiro Institute for Entrepreneurial Leadership at Clemson. There was a need to increase entrepreneurship classes in the management department and Keith was excited to step into this new role. With a background in financial cost accounting and having worked for several Fortune 500 companies, Keith is excited to use his unique perspective to help students navigate the ups and downs of college. Keith has a special talent for connecting people and enjoys utilizing his private sector experiences in the academic world. Keith also has a passion for entrepreneurship and even ran his own manufacturing company for 12 years. Born in Greenville, Keith graduated from Clemson in 1982 with a degree in financial management. He and his wife moved to Clemson from Columbia in May. "I do draw energy from the students. They keep me young at heart. Students have to experience the ups and downs, but if I can help them navigate these issues, I think I've accomplished something," said Keith. We are so excited to welcome Keith to the Clemson family!

Welcome to Clemson, Theresa and Keith! Go Tigers!!!!

"Theresa and Keith are proof that Clemson is drawing top talent from across the country as well as from our own backyard. They both possess exceptional leadership and dedication to Clemson- we are proud to welcome them as fellow tigers."
