BRANDING GUIDELINES

let's begin.

A BRAND STORY THAT ARCS TOWARD SIGNIFICANCE

How we got to let's begin

For 130 years, every Clemson journey has started in the same simple way: with a single step forward in pursuit of purpose. Everything that happens next stems from our shared desire for significance. Tigers roll up their sleeves and we set to work, both to better ourselves and on behalf of the greater good. Our work matters. It changes lives. And in the end, it will change the world.

Where we started

Enormous opportunity exists for a brand update at this point in Clemson's history because the value of our institution, and, by virtue of that, the symbols and messages representing it, have never been higher.

let's begin applies to our shared journey, that of the singular person, and the collective's engagement with our institution. It provides a creative framework for personifying our deeds and our actions, giving all of us the ability to clearly, consistently and specifically communicate the core and intentionally humble idea that what we say will never be as important as what we do.

“The value of the Paw has never been higher. It's never been stronger.”

The value of significance

Significance is a multipronged value. It is about being of consequence while remaining humble. It's the basic human need to matter to others, to our community and ultimately to the world. When we live a life with significance as a core value, we appreciate and honor the contributions of each individual and ultimately honor the community, state, country and world we live in.

Clemson University's brand gives fresh voice to our stories of significance. Told through the undertakings and endeavors of Clemson's people and places, its history and its happenings, the brand story is shared in pictures and in words, in print, video and sound.

- > It starts ... with our banner emblem: The Paw.
- > It endures ... through the ambitious actions and purposeful engagements of our people, this place and the programs housed here. The more we share our story, the more it unites us to compete, achieve and belong.
- > and Clemson's story ends ... where a new one begins — at our outcomes, those applied on the world by Tigers dedicated to making a difference.

What makes us different

Understanding who we are often starts with understanding where we are. That's why our brand has been built on a solid foundation of our inherent values, beliefs and differentiators. These allow us to share authentic information about who we are and what we are so that we can help audiences better understand what sets Clemson apart and our unique position in the marketplace.

What we say, and how we say it

let's begin* serves as a Universitywide messaging campaign that represents a sweeping spectrum of engagement for the Clemson Brand. It tethers itself to the brand value of significance, but more notably, it serves as Clemson's humble, empowering rallying cry.

let's begin is what we say before we embark on our individual journeys toward significance. It's also the unifying benediction for our shared Clemson stories as we go out to work in and serve the world. let's begin inspires us to join, encourages us to continue and substantiates our enduring commitment to be a part of the Clemson Family.

Brand voice and tone

The higher ed landscape is a noisy, at times cavalier, space. Our brand voice distinguishes itself — be it for a generic or a targeted marketing campaign — by speaking in specific, visual, impactful and tangible message points. We must also carefully consider our tone when making conversation about ourselves.

- > At Clemson, we do not take ourselves too seriously. So, yes, we can be clever (because we are) but never glib. And although we are often witty (particularly when explaining our exploits and adventures), we should not veer into the realm of silly.

- > On the field (and as fans), we are proud, earnest and loyal when cheering on our teammates and our classmates. But if we find our voice in the realm of braggartly, overzealous or dogmatic, we risk being off brand, or worse, offending. Yes, we are spirited, but we should never, ever sound “cocky.”
- > When we talk about what we do, it should be because we are participants, not simply observers. And to that same end, how we talk about our work should be active, rather than passive.
- > Our topics, by virtue of our research, may be elevated and difficult to understand. But when educated language becomes unwieldy (or worse, arrogant), it must be revisited. By the same token, when a dynamic subject turns out to be more of a gimmick, consider passing on the story until it is more substantial.
- > And because of our deep institutional roots, we give honor to the past and, particularly, the people who came before us. But traditional should never be confused with regressive. As we share our message, we must be sensitive to and aware of those who historically have not been a part of the Clemson story. Inclusivity and accessibility are paramount in everything we say and do.

Tools for better brand writing

Pillars and personas

Content strategy guides the creation, delivery and governance of useful, useable content. But strategy sounds complicated. Storytelling sounds simpler. Let's be more intentional with our storytelling and more distinctive with our brand personality.

BRAND PILLARS

Brand pillars are a key tool for a content strategy that digs deeper into our work and our storytelling so that we do a better job of explaining who Clemson is. Content pillars help us move away from building content focused on the generic, broad themes of higher ed, and they move us toward building Clemson-specific content that points back to the specific brand value of significance. When we identify and then enable content to ladder up to more than one pillar, it allows it to come to life in new, impactful and ultimately more significant ways.

Achieving Academic Significance — THE EXPERIENCE

Pull quotes and short-format profiles, email messaging, video

> These are the close-knit classroom, lab, research and leadership experiences that lead to academic achievements. These are the experiences that drive and form academic accomplishments at Clemson.

Making Significant Impact — THE DIFFERENCE

Video (social, interview-style, livestreams), digital storytelling, listicles, short- and long-form copy

> The work of the people, the place, the experiences echo beyond the boundaries of campus. This digs into our global impact, our campus impact, our research impact. How the work happening on campus is making a difference here — and beyond.

> This pillar also ties very strongly into the values of the Gen Z generation, which values being a part of something bigger than themselves.

Living Every Day Significantly — THE PLACE

Social stories, photo stories, short-format copy/captions, short-format/hype video

> This pillar really illustrates how students, faculty and staff experience Clemson from a personal perspective. It's more fun, light and easy, showing that Clemson is a beautiful place to live, learn and work.

Creating Significant Connections — THE PEOPLE

Testimonials (video and print), environmental portraits, narrative writing, multisubject/narrative video

> This pillar digs into the personal atmosphere of support that allows our faculty, staff and students to challenge themselves. These are the people pushing, encouraging and helping you get to where you want to be.

> There's an alumni connection in this pillar, as well as the great student-faculty relationship piece of Clemson that in many ways is truly unique to the Clemson Experience.

Celebrating Significant Spirit — THE WORK

> This foundational pillar ties the other pillars together. It informs and drives the work being done by our students, faculty and staff.

Meet our personas

We get it. Brand writing can feel vague and disconnected. Personas serve as a great tool for helping us understand how to write for, create content for and ultimately reach key Clemson audiences within established brand content pillars.

What is an audience persona? This fictional model describes your typical or target customer, based on detailed audience research. In order to be useful, your audience personas need to be based on real-world information, not gut instinct.

We have created sample profiles of different audience segments as if he or she were a real person to help you craft targeted, effective marketing messages to them.

The brand in action

How do we leverage the let's begin brand to distinguish Clemson from other colleges and universities?

We make the call, ask the question, go beyond what's provided and fill out the story we have to tell of how Clemson's work is making a difference. In order to support our storytelling, the brand voice must be specific and active when presented in headlines and other big statements.

It avoids the stative verbs (is, are, were) in specific campaign messaging in favor of the more intentional active verb in the delivery and a specific outcome.

The 3 primary components of any let's begin brand communication are:

1. An active, inspiring headline.
2. Authentic, outcome-focused copy that avoids the stative and the generic and instead employs active verbs and specific nouns to tell the Clemson story.
3. Our tagline completes the story arc; it is our significance in three syllables — let's begin.

The active headline

Outcome-focused copy

The tagline, let's begin

Resources for writers

Paws to Print Fact Guide

As Clemson University continues to be recognized among the top public research universities in the country, we are sharing stories about the Clemson Experience across more platforms than ever before, including through print, digital, social media and video. Because everything that is published under the Clemson name reflects the University as a whole, it is vital that we present a consistent voice across all promotional and informational materials. Our goal is to deliver clear, engaging communication that demonstrates and enhances the high quality of the Clemson brand.

Therefore, it is crucial that all University marketing and communication pieces highlight the most accurate and current enrollment figures, admission statistics, brags and rankings, etc. The creation of a Paws to Print Fact Guide ensures that all materials that rely on these aforementioned facts are referenced from a universal, comprehensive collection of data. It will serve as a valuable resource for all University communicators to access various key information points. The Paws to Print Fact Guide is an evolving document that will be revised when updated facts, statistics, rankings and figures are released by various internal and external sources.

Clemson University Style Guide

The Clemson University Style Guide is intended for all Clemson University employees who are writing or editing text for print publications, websites, digital, mobile, promotional and other content for internal and external audiences. The University follows the AP Stylebook (apstylebook.com), a reference guide for journalists. This Style Guide is meant to serve as a supplement to the 2019 AP Stylebook, and it is a living document that will be periodically updated as new entries and clarifications are required.

An official Style Guide provides additional clarity of best practices for writers when there is more than one acceptable or correct way of writing something. The application of specific standards ensures a clear, consistent presentation in all written communication while maintaining the integrity of the Clemson brand. When all academic and administrative units follow the same set of editorial guidelines, it is a reflection that every unique college, department, division and office still ultimately comes together to make up one Clemson University.

BRANDING GUIDELINES

Clemson logos and the brand

The value of our symbols has never been higher at Clemson University. Recognizing this in the new brand, a unique opportunity to unify our icons across the academic and athletic spectrum now exists. The Clemson brand update of let's begin executes on this idea through a newly expanded family of logos.

LOGO AND WORDMARK GUIDELINES AND STANDARDS

A Clemson University logo or wordmark is a standardized graphic representation associated with this institution. Because of the value to Clemson University, any logo or wordmark that is intended to represent the University is the property of the University and must fit all University guidelines. Logos and/or wordmarks may not be used for commercial purposes without prior approval of the University's Trademarks and Licensing Office.

To provide brand recognition and connect University units with the Clemson University brand, print and digital communications for all Clemson University units should reflect consistent graphic identity standards.

To maintain brand consistency, a five-level system clarifies current logos and helps bring consistency to any future logos or wordmarks. Any logo variations must be approved in advance by University Relations.

GENERAL LIMITATIONS AND RESTRICTIONS

- > These elements may not be used to designate a business, social, political, religious or any other organization, or to imply or otherwise suggest the University's endorsement, support, favor or association with any organization, product or service without permission of the University and the University's Trademarks and Licensing Office.
- > As Clemson is an academic institution, beer, wine, alcohol, tobacco, firearms, religious, call to action, gambling or political advertisements will require rigorous review, and all advertising and/or use of federally protected Clemson marks (athletic or campuswide) will require the prior written consent of Clemson University Director of Licensing after receiving ELT-level approval.
- > All imprinted products containing University wordmarks must be produced by a Collegiate Licensing Company (CLC), Clemson-licensed vendor (T-shirts, giveaways, etc.). For more information on licensing and a list of Clemson CLC-licensed vendors, visit clemson.edu/university-relations/licensed-vendors.html.
- > Additional details on logo usage can be found on page 32.

Level systems

To maintain brand consistency, a five-level system clarifies current logos and helps bring consistency to any future logos or wordmarks.

ANY LOGO VARIATIONS MUST BE APPROVED IN ADVANCE BY UNIVERSITY RELATIONS.

LEVEL ONE

Master marks

These logos and wordmarks are the strongest visible symbols of Clemson and represent the entire University. The Clemson wordmark and Tiger Paw may be used noncommercially* by anyone at the University as long as used appropriately within the guidelines set forth in this manual.

**Having no commercial objective and/or not intended to make a profit*

CLEMSON®

LEVEL ONE

Wordmarks

The primary wordmark is a stylized version of CLEMSON with the Tiger Paw in the “O” position. Because of the increased brand equity of CLEMSON and the Tiger Paw, UNIVERSITY is not included in the primary version. There are times when UNIVERSITY is needed. The alternative versions of the wordmark are to be used in those cases.

CLEMSON WORDMARK PRIMARY

The CLEMSON wordmark should be used primarily for nonathletic University audiences. The primary wordmark is a stylized version of CLEMSON with the Tiger Paw in the “O” position and does not use the word UNIVERSITY.

- > CLEMSON and TIGER PAW should be primarily reproduced in either Clemson Orange* or Goal Line White. Approved color variations are shown.
- > If reproduced in black, the TIGER PAW should be outlined with a fine black line, providing the TIGER PAW with a white background. Any other variations must be approved in advance by University Relations and the Trademarks and Licensing Office.
- > Registration “®” mark must always be used and should appear in superscript beside the “N” in CLEMSON. In the case of the CLEMSON with the TIGER PAW in the “O” position version, a registration “®” mark only needs to appear in superscript beside the “N” in CLEMSON because of the lockup of the two master marks.

* Clemson Orange – see color palette guidelines

ADDITIONAL COLOR VERSIONS

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY WORDMARK
ALTERNATIVE

The CLEMSON UNIVERSITY wordmark should be used for general audiences and/or audiences that may not have a brand awareness of CLEMSON. There are optional alternative versions of this wordmark that include CLEMSON with the TIGER PAW in the “O” position and CLEMSON without the TIGER PAW. Either of these can be used but must follow the use guidelines.

- > All use guidelines for CLEMSON wordmark (A) apply to this version.
- > UNIVERSITY should be reproduced in Regalia, Clemson Orange* or Goal Line White.

LEVEL ONE

Tiger Paw

Traditionally used exclusively for athletic uses, the Paw straddles academic and athletic usage.

- > Tilt to one o'clock.
- > Reproduce in either Goal Line White or Clemson Orange*.
- > If printed in black and white, the Paw should be outlined with a fine black line, providing the Tiger Paw with a white background. Any other variations must be approved in advance by Trademarks and Licensing Office.
- > Registration ® mark must always be used.
- > Additional details on logo usage can be found on page 32.

*Clemson Orange – see color palette guidelines

LEVEL TWO

Restricted-use marks

UNIVERSITY SEAL — PRIMARY

The primary version of the seal is restricted by the following guidelines:

- > The UNIVERSITY SEAL is restricted to the president, Board of Trustees and groups and uses created or designated by the President's Office. Any other uses of the UNIVERSITY SEAL must be approved in advance by the President's Office.
- > The seal appears on certificates that (1) are signed by the president, (2) are signed by the chair of the Board of Trustees or (3) recognize a Universitywide award.
- > Reproduced in two colors, Clemson Orange* and Regalia, or in a single color using either Clemson Orange*, Regalia, Goal Line White or Diploma
- > Any other color variations must be approved in advance by University Relations.
- > Registration “®” mark must always be used and should appear in subscript on the lower right of the seal

UNIVERSITY SEAL — ALTERNATIVE

- > A simplified version of the seal has been modernized and broadened as an option for use in the academic units, lending more substance and significance to these areas than were previously assigned. See Level 3 for guideline details.

LEVEL TWO

Restricted-use marks

ANY USE OF THE CLEMSON RING CREST MUST BE APPROVED BY THE CLEMSON ALUMNI ASSOCIATION (CAA).

CLEMSON RING CREST

- > The CLEMSON RING CREST is a registered mark and must include the “®” symbol as a component of the crest in the lower right corner, aligned with the bottom of the RING CREST and the right side of the C.
- > Reproduction of the CLEMSON RING CREST must use original artwork provided by the Clemson Alumni Association. Hand-drawn and unauthorized reproductions, or re-creations of the crest in whole or in part are prohibited. Electronically scanned crest images of poor quality or low resolution are prohibited. Do not add any effects such as bevels, drop shadows or outlines. Do not stretch or bend the crest or alter its proportions. Please make sure that the contrast between the crest and the background is sufficient for legibility. Crest reversals on tints are not recommended.
- > If approved for use, the CLEMSON RING CREST can include the University’s founding year, 1889, or the last two digits of a graduate’s class year. The numbers are a unique design, included in the file from the CAA. The CLEMSON RING CREST can only be used as a one-color design selected from the official Clemson University brand color palette. Approved colors are Clemson Orange, Regalia, Howard’s Rock, Class Ring, Bengal Stripe and Goal Line. Any other color must be approved by the CAA. A simplified crest more suitable for embroidery or other small use is also available.
- > For additional guideline details contact Daniel Austin, director of marketing and brand development for the Clemson Alumni Association.
- > For more information on licensing and a list of Clemson CLC-licensed vendors, visit clemson.edu/university-relations/licensed-vendors.html.

LEVEL TWO

Restricted-use marks

COLLEGE VAULT

The vault marks are a part of the College Vault program. Clemson University’s vault marks are a collection of legacy logos and/or wordmarks from the past that have been digitized and trademarked. These may not be used for commercial or noncommercial purposes without prior approval of the University’s Trademarks and Licensing Office.

ATHLETIC TRADEMARKS

College Vault, athletic and all “hot market” marks/logos, which are those created for the purpose of generating royalties, must be approved by the director of licensing and run through the Collegiate Licensing Company prior to use. All vendors must be licensed and in good standing, both with Clemson University and the Collegiate Licensing Company.

For additional information regarding the permitted use of these logos, contact Tim Match, associate athletic director/external affairs and director of licensing, at mtimoth@clemson.edu.

Following the 60-day window of the release of the “hot market” mark/logo, no royalties will be associated if used appropriately and for internal consumption.

If the “hot market” mark/logo is to be used on premium/giveaway items, they cannot be similar or identical to items available in the retail marketplace. Internal departments do not have permission to produce t-shirts/luggage tags/tumblers with the “hot market” mark/logo unless it adheres to royalty-bearing and non-royalty-bearing dates specific above.

LEVEL THREE

  - Use only brand fonts (Excluding Script Fonts).
  - Use only brand colors and follow the guidelines for brand palette use.
- > Use of approved marks by officially registered student organizations on apparel must have approval from Student Affairs Publications. The student organization’s formally registered name must be used (including the word “club” if it is a club sport) and adhere to the Student Organization Policy.

LEVEL FIVE LOGO

Marketplace subbrand

These product brands have significant recognition or equity in the marketplace beyond that of Clemson University, may compete with off-campus/external commercial entities in the marketplace and may be multi-institutional.

All logos/marks at this level must get prior approval to develop a level 5 logo/mark, and final design must be approved by University Relations.

CLEMSON®
UNIVERSITY PRESS

- > Preferably, these marks incorporate brand fonts, Clemson Orange* and a wordmark or Tiger Paw. If not, the words “Clemson University” are required. If an agreement with other institutions prevents that, the words “Clemson University” need to be used as part of the mark’s design when appearing in University promotional, communications or event materials.
- > Any acronym must have the descriptive name designed as a lockup of the acronym in the logo design. In the case of T-shirt design use, a separation of the lockup of the acronym and the descriptive text would be allowed, but both should appear on the shirt.

*Clemson Orange – see color palette guidelines

Logo clear space

The Clemson logo must be protected and elevated, always having a clear space around it where no other elements appear (such as typography, other logos, graphics or photos that intrude upon the logo).

Be mindful of maintaining this clear space, and do not place the logo too close to the paper’s edge, any folded edge, any cuts or embossing.

> The clear space of the Clemson Wordmark is “X,” as defined by the width of the counter (the inner space) of the “O” or the “Paw” in Clemson.

> The clear space of the Academic and Nonacademic Marks is 1/2 “X,” as defined by the width of the “Seal” or the “Paw” in the mark.

Unacceptable logo applications

- > Do not add any effects such as bevels, drop shadows or outlines or change manipulate original colors.
- > Do not use the logo over a tint unless it provides excellent contrast and legibility.
- > Do not partially reverse a logo out of a tint or screen, and do not use any tints other than those in the palette. If in doubt, check with Design Director Jesse Godfrey at jesseg@clemson.edu.
- > Do not stretch, bend or alter any proportions.
- > A partially reversed logo over a photo can work, but do not use a busy photo or a photo that is too light to provide sufficient contrast.

Bringing Clemson into hue

The heart of our brand bleeds Clemson Orange. So, our primary and expanded color palette complements the Orange while still providing broad personality and instant recognizability to our brand.

Primary colors

A connected brand palette not only strengthens the way we tell the Clemson story; its iconic and enduring appeal communicates the value we place on hard work, our history and the optimistic lens through which we view our impact on the world.

Additionally, correct use of the brand palette ensures accessibility and legibility in print and digital applications.

Clemson Orange

It’s our hallmark color, and how we are known — whether it’s worn as apparel, printed on a Tigertown Bound yard sign or displayed in lights above a 50-yard line. To maintain the value and consistency of Clemson Orange, unique color codes are applied depending on the application (fabric, print, digital, etc.)

Our brand in type

Strong communicators recognize that the art and technique of arranging type does more than hold an audience's attention. It conveys tone, maintains the aesthetic value of a brand and serves as a keeper of our voice.

Clemson's brand typefaces, primary and secondary, provide equal parts traditional and modern character, carrying forward our institution's past while still squarely facing the future.

Most brand fonts are readily available through Adobe Fonts and can be activated through your Adobe Creative Cloud account at fonts.adobe.com. Licensed brand fonts are available by request at the discretion of University Relations. For purchasing information, contact Design Director Jesse Godfrey at jesseg@clemson.edu.

Tiempos

Primary serif typeface

Our primary serif typeface looks editorial yet fresh. This typeface proved itself to be a solid embodiment of the Clemson dichotomy – traditional yet modern and innovative. Offering a wide range of faces, particularly in its text set, it is more legible than past typefaces, including Goudy. Its “fine” set of styles offer sharp serifs and high contrast, adding to the legibility.

Primary sans serif typeface

The primary sans serif typeface provides more diversity in an existing font. Clemson already has invested heavily in the use of Trade Gothic. This new, refined version adds some additional styles and weights to the family of fonts already in use campuswide. A “draftsman” font, this mechanical, tactile and architectural font fits Clemson’s work ethic, serving as the humble, perhaps more blue-collar font of our font family.

Secondary sans serif typeface

An alternate sans serif typeface, Biotif presents as a slightly more rounded geometric sans serif and has a particularly modern and cutting-edge aesthetic to it and presents as the most dramatic change to our typeface family. Biotif feels modern and innovative; it looks toward future discovery rather than past achievements and experiences, embodying Clemson's goal to be a top research institute solving global problems.

Custom typefaces

OLD HALL SLAB SERIF

There are times when the need for form eclipses function. This custom display typeface, developed by Clemson University Relations, to mirror the architectural lettering found on historic campus buildings. It offers a nod to our distinguished history while lending a distinctive look within our brand font family.

PAW HAMMER

Developed for Clemson Athletics, this typeface has a bold and powerful aesthetic. Use of Paw Hammer is primarily intended for use in athletic contexts and should only be used for headlines and text with limited characters.

Body text

The legibility and consistency of our body text and its ability to pair with our primary and alternate fonts denote this font family, selected for the new brand.

Hoefler Text

Largely designed to optimize long-form copy to make legible and comfortable for the reader, Hoefler Text identifies as an industry standard serif for body text, and its form identifies as a classic, Roman serif face for use in long-form print and on the web.

Goudy Old Style

The “legacy” font of Clemson, Goudy has been used for many years and is most associated with the brand because of its role in the logo. Should be used exclusively for high-level institutional communications and presidential use.

05. let's focus...

Clemson in images

Photography and video production offer some of the most effective ways to share Clemson’s brand story of significance and authenticity.

The let’s begin brand uniquely exists at those places where the Clemson Experience intersects with its outcomes in the world, and our photos and videos show those outcomes and intersections in a unique and compelling way.

Our images, particularly when blended with words, sound and music, should juxtapose not just ideas but also their associated outcomes, inspiring and engaging audiences in a way that copy alone cannot.

Photography

We have developed a unique style of photography to distinguish and differentiate Clemson from its competitors. Our photography utilizes leading lines to represent movement, direction and pathways. Additionally, it frames the specific over the generic, the iconic rather than the everyday.

The brand requires both intentional front-end photo direction and a distinctive back-end editing process. Other elements of our brand include:

- > Leading lines.
- > Use of directional light.
- > Wider focus.
- > Wider depth of field.
- > Uncluttered environments.
- > Subject looking at camera with the outcome in the background OR looking at action/showing the outcome.
- > More editorial in nature: textured, layered, emotive.

Photographic best practices

Ideally, our images should communicate collaboration. Some tips for doing this include:

- > Avoid images of isolated people.
- > Lean into authenticity.
- > Be intentional but not at the risk of feeling staged.
- > Show an emotional connection.
- > Consider shooting the same situation from a variety of different angles.
- > Consider versatility and utility of photos at all times (shoot horizontal and vertical, close up and farther out, etc.)

We will not stage moments as we execute on the new brand. Rather, we will set the stage for a beautiful, engaging photograph and let the moments happen.

PORTRAIT-STYLE PHOTOGRAPHY

Portrait-style photography has the subject (or subjects, ideally no more than three or four) engaging in their environment to tell the significance story. Should have enough negative space to allow incorporation of graphic lines/elements within the photo. Leading lines should draw the eye to the significance point of the photo.

LANDSCAPE-STYLE PHOTOGRAPHY

Geography-based intentionally shows the foreground and background or the subject or subjects in context. This treatment works better in horizontal, but it can and should be shot both horizontal and vertical for maximum flexibility. It is more textured and more editorial in style than past brand photography to communicate depth and authenticity and specificity.

Portraits

STUDIO

In-studio, backdrop portraits should be reserved primarily for headshots, which is to say strictly utilitarian use, such as newsletters, internal communications, informational listings or directories, etc. Reserved almost exclusively for faculty and staff (versus students). To book a headshot with a professional photographer, visit clemsont.edu/photoservices.

ENVIRONMENTAL

Staged portraits in context can be useful for internal and external communications, but should be art directed for lighting, background clutter and authenticity. The subject can be smiling or serious and is ideally shot both ways.

Candid

ENVIRONMENTAL
multiple subjects in context

CAMPUS LIFE
activity, engagement that connects the geography of our campus with the people who use it

ICONIC
historic, traditional, timeless imagery that may or may not include people, but captures the identity of our historical institution

EDITORIAL
Some projects require the use of editorial photography to complement long-form editorial copy. This includes, but is not limited to Clemson World magazine, certain college and departmental publications, and occasionally long-form flipbook digital publications. Editorial photography is the most conceptual and technically complex form of photography, sometimes including more than one photographer, and is exclusively executed, edited and produced by photo services.

Video best practices

In addition to photography, the video telling of Clemson's story provides an opportunity for even greater impact on our audiences. This uniquely emotional medium, regardless of scope or audience, should employ the use of intentional lighting and intentional composition of interview subjects as much as possible.

B-ROLL COMPOSITION AND TECHNIQUE

- > Record various shot types of the same scene (wide and tight shots).
- > Sequence b-roll as short "scenes" that tell a story or make a statement visually.
- > When possible, utilize production lighting to achieve shots that have a more cinematic feel.

INTERVIEW COMPOSITION AND TECHNIQUE

- > Utilize production lighting to achieve more dramatic, impactful looks.
- > Select an environment that not only works for recording but also speaks to the subject.
- > Use depth of field to create subject-to-background separation.
- > Look for opportunities to incorporate leading lines into overall frame.
- > If at all possible, record two camera angles.

Video production

As a component of the new let's begin brand, video services will employ a four-level system of video production.

LEVEL 1 represents the most conceptual and technically complex to execute, involving multiple creative teams and exclusively produced by Clemson University Video Services (CUVS). Scripting, custom sound, lighting and graphics, and the use of special footage (time-lapse, high frame rate, complex camera movements) can be incorporated. TIMEFRAME: Multiple months required from planning to delivery.

LEVEL 2 represents scripted or partially scripted documentary-style video, which may incorporate more technically complex cinematography and could be produced solely by CUVS or in partnership. TIMEFRAME: These projects generally take a month or more to execute from conception to delivery, depending on campus partner involvement.

LEVEL 3 videos may be CUVS-produced or may be produced at the partner level. Cinematic footage is preferred, but basic video footage from various sources may be used. Basic planning and scripting for questions (but not answers necessarily) may be employed. TIMEFRAME: These projects generally take weeks to execute from conception to delivery, depending on campus partner involvement.

LEVEL 4 videos are produced exclusively at the department level for small/narrow audiences or limited-scope projects. Compilation video projects, topical/news videos and department- or project-level social videos would fall under this category. Can incorporate limited use of “stock” footage, if necessary. TIMEFRAME: These can be executed in days but ideally are planned out at least a week in advance.

ACCESSIBILITY
Professional captioning must be made available as either closed or open captions for video content. There are many vendors available who can assist with this.

Contact Video Services with questions or for additional information and instruction on assigning, producing and captioning video content.

MOTION GRAPHICS
For information about motion graphic templates for general-purpose motion graphics —either for CUVS or videos produced at department level — contact Director of Video Services Eric Rodgers at rodgers@clermson.edu.

- > Primary branding animations include an Orange Paw on White, and a White Paw on a Diploma, as well as transparency options.
- > Lower third templates are built to be flexible for number and length of lines, and optimized for legibility.

APPLYING THE BRAND

let's share...

Sample creative

The consistent use of visuals (including colors, fonts, graphic elements and logo placement) in print and digital advertising helps maintain a strong University identity. Whether you're creating an animated skyscraper or a static banner, program advertisement, billboard or magazine ad, it should contain the following structural elements:

- > Logo — The amount of space available will dictate which version of the logo you can use. The Paw alone is never acceptable.
- > Message — When the subject of your ad speaks, what do we hear? See? Feel? Copy should answer a brand question like this and include an active verb or outcome-based phrase and, above all, be specific as space permits.
- > Graphics — The “let’s begin” journey is communicated graphically through rule lines that extend the margins of the page, as well as the stylized arrow.
- > Call to Action — What do you want your audience to do next? Tell users what you want them to do, how you want them to respond — ideally in four words or less.
- > Tagline — let’s begin.

ADVERTISING CREATIVE SAMPLE

PRINT PUBLICATION
SAMPLE CREATIVE

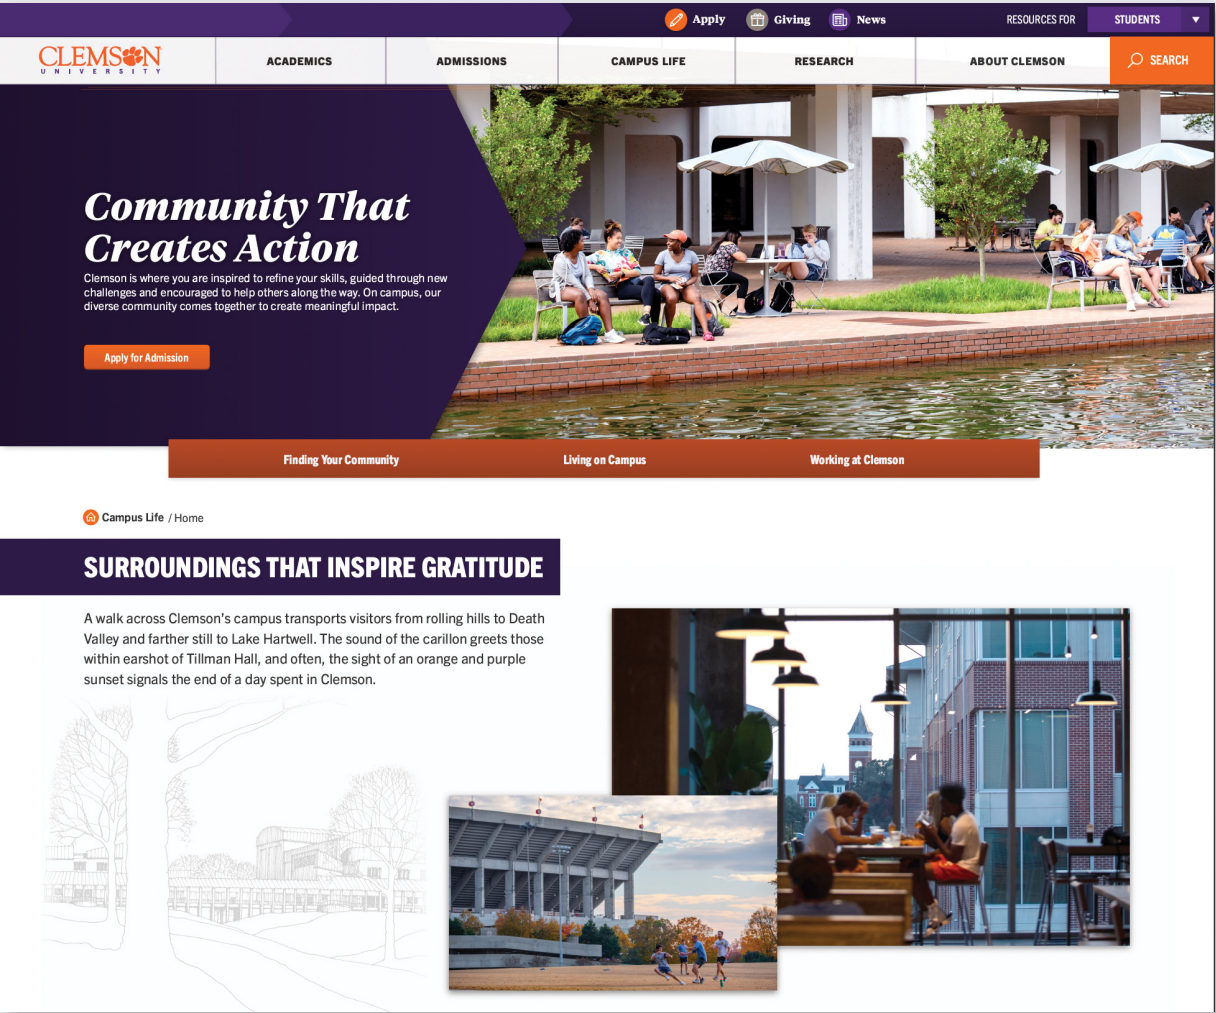

A print communication should contain the core brand identity, as well as several identity extensions. The brand is flexible enough to allow advertisements to be visually related while still allowing for maximum design flexibility.

WEB-SPECIFIC
SAMPLE CREATIVE

The scale of our website’s reach and the diversity of our online audience mean we set the bar extremely high for its design and messaging, with an emphasis on clarity, accessibility and usability.

EMAIL BLAST
SAMPLE CREATIVE

Like print, email communications are designed to reach our constituencies wherever they are about the following of-the-moment activities:

- > educational opportunities.
- > cultural events.
- > recreational services.
- > athletic events.
- > public broadcasting programming.
- > employment opportunities.

Like print, it should contain the core brand identity as well as any applicable identity extensions such as use of the broader brand color palette, logo family, graphic elements, etc. that will make it both recognizable and engaging for audiences.

Join the tradition

Since our founding as a military institution in 1889, Clemson students have been united in traditions.

The very first cadets gathered on Bowman Field for drills, and today you can see ROTC cadets following in their footsteps alongside students playing volleyball and frisbee. Each fall, students build a home for Habitat for Humanity and construct homecoming floats on Bowman Field. This tradition attracts alumni, fans and students to the historic location on campus.

At the first football games in University history, Clemson freshmen waved their rat caps in the air. Now, every member of the Clemson Family waves their hand with the thumb tucked under as though holding a cap during the alma mater.

Since 1896, Clemson alumni have represented the University by wearing Clemson rings. Today, seniors join in the tradition, receiving their Clemson rings at ceremonies held each semester. Clemson students and alumni who wear the ring are reminded of their connection to the Clemson Family by the inscribed phrase, "Who shall separate us now?"

Whether it's cheering on the Tigers, gathering on campus with friends or serving others, Clemson students are united in the time-honored traditions that set our University apart.

Our goal on social

When we tell our story on social channels, the goal should be to show audiences the impact they can have at Clemson University. Tell them the inspiring story: that by joining the Clemson Family, they will be empowered on their quest to make a difference.

Social stories also allow our audience to experience Clemson through the stories of the larger Clemson Family. We amplify those stories that pinpoint the moments that matter and show how those moments create change-makers that eventually walk across the graduation stage.

OUR MINDSET

At Clemson we have a determination to make a difference and make the world a better place. We know actions speak louder than words and constantly challenge ourselves to make our mark. It's an attitude we share and a truth that can't be denied once you've joined our family.

- > We want to shape the future of our world.
- > Our mission is to do things that matter.
- > We want to contribute to something bigger than ourselves.
- > We create our own opportunities.

OUR TRAITS

- > WHAT WE DO: Inspire. Motivate. Celebrate. Engage.
- > WHAT WE DON'T DO: Act overly serious. Be condescending. Be overly political.

How we sound...

DEFINING OUR TONE

- > INQUISITIVE: We like to ask questions and seek new knowledge.
- > WITTY: The perfect combination of being funny and clever without being a know-it-all.
- > WARM: We are gracious. Like to show fondness. Endearing.

For more information on who to contact regarding Clemson's social media policies and guidelines, turn to "Help With the Brand" on page 70.

Web and the brand

It's the first place that people go for more information about Clemson: our website.

Clemson.edu serves as the single most forward-facing and highly consumed medium for our institution and by extension of that, our brand. It's really important.

Prospective students and their families rely on our website for a variety of information about all-things Tigers. But it's also how most people from inside our University — faculty, staff and friends — find vital information and inspiration about Clemson. And it's how the press, outside industry, nonprofit groups and government partners first connect with Clemson, and then it's often how they continue to gather information about new and inspiring ways to engage with us.

The scale of our website's reach and the diversity of our online audience mean we set the bar extremely high for its design and messaging. To make things more challenging, expectations and needs for digital media expand and change almost daily, so consistency both in the look and function of our webpages is paramount.

- > Usability and accessibility remain top priorities in the maintenance and updating of Clemson.edu as a part of the Clemson brand.
- > Consistency and quality with our visual guidelines and institutional voice will be phased in and then maintained on all webpages so that we create brand coordination across all print, digital, video and other messaging, as well as across the site as a whole.
- > Wireframes, web hierarchies, metatags and general back-end information and web organization will be considered alongside personal preference in all web updates, both to avoid duplication and to improve usability and accessibility sitewide, in addition to creating more favorable analytics for Clemson.edu.

PRIMARY RULES FOR WEB MANAGERS

- > Sitemaps should go no more than four levels deep from the departmental container down.
- > Sites need to adhere to University accessibility standards, WCAG 2.0 AA, ccit.clemson.edu/cybersecurity/policy/communication-access/.
- > Branding should be consistent with Clemson University branding requirements and use official Clemson logos.
- > Sites built by externally contracted companies or internally by anyone other than the University Relations Web Services team require review and approval by Web Services to ensure that they meet accessibility standards and branding requirements before the site can be launched.

Clemson.edu has a detailed web strategy designed to provide a consistent approach to meet user needs across all our web properties. For specific information about planning, writing, designing and communicating on the web, including accessibility standards and branding requirements, contact Director of Web Design Services Mandi Hix at 864-221-1844 or mhix@clemson.edu.

Digital writing: editorial and structural guide- lines for web, social and multi- media

TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS FOR WEBPAGES

- > Sitemaps should go no more than 4 levels deep from the departmental container down.
- > The top navigation of Cascade sites within the new templates may not be edited. This is to protect against user confusion through changes to navigation.
- > Events with specific dates should not be added directly to a page, but instead should be loaded into the University Calendar and then pulled into the page. This is to protect pages from outdated content.

USABILITY & ACCESSIBILITY

- > Sites need to adhere to University accessibility standards, WCAG 2.0 AA.
- > Sites must use official Clemson logos.
- > Sites built by externally contracted companies or internally by anyone other than the Office of Web Services must be reviewed to ensure that they meet accessibility standards and branding requirements before the site can be launched.
- > All images should have alt text provided that succinctly describes the content and function of the image.
  - The alt text describes to a person using a screen reader what information an image contains.
  - Search engines also use the alt text to determine what is in the image when they crawl a webpage.
- > All images should be sized and oriented appropriately for the section of the page that they will appear on.
- > Do not create an image to convey important information that can be communicated through a webpage. For example, do not use an image of a single slide from a slideshow presentation instead of typing the information out into the page. Websites are not made to contain images of text, but instead to contain the text itself. Also, do not display an image of a PDF in place of linking to an actual PDF document.

- > To be in line with Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG), there must be sufficient contrast between background and foreground colors (text and graphics) to accommodate low vision and colorblind users on Clemson.edu.

WRITING FOR WEB

- > Headings
  - Headings are structural elements intended to reflect the hierarchy of topics presented on the page. Proper heading markup makes pages accessible to low-vision and screen reader users who tend to use headings to orient themselves on webpages. Screen reader users, like all users, also tend to skim headings as a way to assess a given page's relevance.
  - Use H1-H5 headings appropriately.
  - Create only one H1 heading for each page. One H1 is automatically created when setting up a page in cascade.
  - Properly nest all other heading levels (H2-H6) so that a given heading level does not appear on a page until the one immediately preceding it has.
  - Do not use H1-H6 header markup to style any content other than heading text.

- > On-page SEO
  - The title tag for your webpage should be 55 characters or less. Title tags are truncated at 55 characters on mobile.
  - Write a concise meta description for your webpage that is 130 characters or less and includes a call to action. The meta description is essentially a pitch for search engine users to describe your page content and incentivize them to click.
  - Each webpage should include 300+ words of valuable copy.
  - Each webpage should include links that provide logical next steps for the user.
  - When writing for Clemson.edu, provide information in a concise manner, using headings to call out the most important information on your page. The goal is to create a webpage that provides valuable information in a skimmable format. Do not format the page with large paragraphs of text. Rather, break up the information with headings and shorter paragraphs to expand on the subject of the heading.
  - Each webpage should be optimized for one keyword. Include your keyword in your title tag and throughout your content as appropriate (3-4 times). Also consider language that is related to your keyword, incorporating synonyms for your keyword and related terms so that when the page is crawled, it is verified as a useful source of information on the keyword you are hoping to rank for.

- > Naming Conventions, Punctuation and Formatting
  - Refer to the Clemson University Style Guide for Clemson-specific usage related to capitalization, punctuation, formatting and Clemson building names.

WRITING FOR SOCIAL MEDIA

- > All social media posts published by Clemson University and its affiliates should be free from grammatical errors, factual mistakes and degrading content.
- > When creating a social post, take time to consider your audience. Use the voice of our brand to stop their scroll with positive, informative content delivered from a position of strength.
- > Use your opportunity to represent Clemson University through social media to build others up, to share relevant, informative content pertaining to our University and graduates.
- > Refer to the Clemson University Style Guide for building names, capitalization rules and naming conventions.
- > Social exceptions from the Clemson University Style Guide:
  - Numbers under 10 can be included numerically rather than spelled out in social posts when necessary.
  - The official name of an institution can be replaced with their social handle when necessary.

- The registered trademark symbol does not have to be included in social references to the Call Me Mister program when the program is tagged @CallMeMiSTER
- The % sign is acceptable in text.
- > The ideal length for a Facebook post is 40-80 characters. Posts that contain 40 characters or less earn 86% more engagement.
- > The ideal length for an Instagram Caption is 138-150 characters. The ideal number of hashtags for Instagram Captions is 5-10.
- > The ideal length for a Twitter post is 71-100 characters. According to data from Buddy Media, Tweets with 100 characters get 17% higher engagement rates than longer Tweets.
- > The ideal number of characters in a LinkedIn status update is 50-100 characters.
- > The primary takeaway for social media captions: be concise, and include a call to action.
- > The best calls to action from social media can be boiled down to two things: clicking a link or engaging with the post natively.
